Photographing wild places needs a mix of physical toughness, extraordinary creative skill and emotional sensitivity. This unique genre has been strong in Tasmania for many years, with famous exponents like Peter Dombrovskis recording the beauty of the island's wild places.

The Wilderness Gallery is a globally significant collection of superb nature photography.

This world-class gallery is situated on the edge of the Cradle Mountain-Lake St Clair National Park, part of the Tasmanian Wilderness World Heritage Area.

Australia's largest privately owned photographic gallery takes visitors on a remarkable journey through the eyes of some of Tasmania's and the world's finest photographers.

Changing exhibitions in the Gallery's 10 rooms feature the work of acclaimed Australian and international photographers.

Many images are of wilderness destinations that cannot be easily accessed by visitors, opening up new worlds and connecting visitors with the environment.

Images are available for purchase and guided tours of the gallery are available by arrangement.

Set within the grounds of Cradle Mountain Chateau, The Wilderness Gallery is open 10am-5pm daily. Entry is free for Chateau guests.

Cradle Mountain Chateau offers a variety of 4 star accommodation styles, including luxuriously appointed split-level King Spa suites.

Photographers Rob Blakers (front cover), Loic LeGuilly, Grant Dixon and Dennis Harding exhibit at The Wilderness Gallery and their photographs above are available for purchase.
